1. The Argentine Communist Party has recently established a Comision Israelita del Partido Comunista de la Argentina (Israelite Commission of the Argentine Communist Party) in an effort to increase contributions from local Jewish residents. During the war years, a large part of the financial backing for the Argentine Communist Party was provided by Jewish residents, some of whom were not affiliated with the Party. After the war, large donations from local Jews dropped off considerably, with the result that the Argentine Communist Party has been faced with the problem of trying to revive the interest of these former contributors.
2. The Israelite Commission is currently playing up the suffering of Jewish DP's in Europe and attempting to point out that Anglo-American policy is severely anti-Semitic. The current situation in Palestine is being used for criticism of Great Britain and the United States and is contrasted with the "disinterested and generous" attitude of the Soviet Union, wherein the Jewish problem "has been solved." Circulars call for the solidarity of the Jews of America, Europe, Palestine, and the Soviet Union.
